University Design Studio Information 2025

Aedes University Design Studios offer students and faculty the opportunity to experiment with new approaches, methods and collaborations in a beautiful and dynamic location right in the heart of Berlin.

Whether as a summer school, part of the semester's excursion period, or a semester-long programme, in Aedes Design Studios students from our international partner universities and their professors explore a globally relevant topic through specific case-study sites or building typologies in Berlin. The studios reflect the city's rich diversity of form, scale, public space and discourses.

With its cutting-edge programme, Aedes is a place that inspires creative and unconventional exchange between students and leading international minds from architecture, industry, governance and research.
